

Richard O. Cook VMD Scholarship Application

The Richard O. Cook VMD Scholarship is offered to a senior in the Harford Tech Agribusiness/Animal Science Program who demonstrates great personal character, passion for animals, and a dedication to pursue a career in animal studies. Applicant must be proficient in animal care by working effectively, safely and with compassion. Applicant must demonstrate skills in personal growth that include personal achievements, community-based activities, and a personal devotion to animals.

QUALIFICATIONS: Applicant must: (1) be a high school senior enrolled in the Agribusiness/Animal Science Program at Harford Technical School in Harford County, Maryland; (2) have a minimum 3.0 overall GPA including first semester of senior year; (3) be pursuing a four-year degree; (4) be committed to an animal science or a closely related field of study; and (5) have a 3.5 GPA or higher in the technical program for the seven semesters of study. Award recipient must attend the scholarship presentation at the Harford Tech FFA Annual Parent-Member Banquet in May.

First Name	Last Name
Date of Birth	Email

List any Harford Tech FFA offices held, committee work, career development events, and chapter activities you have participated in and provide year for each.

List any Harford Tech FFA Chapter Awards and provide year for each.

List any Agribusiness/Animal Science honors or awards you have received and provide year for each.

In 3,500 characters or less, discuss your plans for your future in animal studies and explain why you should be the one selected for this scholarship. Discuss your personal character, passion for animals, and dedication to pursue a career in animal studies by working effectively, safely and with compassion.